

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Then You'll Remember Me.
When other lips and other hearts
Their tales of love shall tell,
In language whose excess imparts
The power they feel so well,
There may perhaps in such a scene
Some recollection be
Of days that have as happy been,
And you'll remember me.

When coldness or deceit shall slight
The beauty that they prize,
And deem it but a faded light
Which beams within your eyes;
When hollow hearts shall wear a mask,
'Twill break your own to see,
In such a moment I but ask
That you'll remember me.

Annual Meeting of Dames.
The Colonial Dames held their annual meeting at 4:30 o'clock yesterday with Mrs. Herbert A. Claiborne, the president, in the chair.

Mrs. Claiborne, in addressing the Dames, said:
"Feelings of humility and of very great pleasure overwhelm me my dear friends, when I realize your never-fading consideration of me. Humble I am, because you overestimate my influence and usefulness; pleased, because in the years that have passed since I was chosen to be your president nothing but affectionate regard have I received at your hands. I thank you for my heart."
Virginia Dames have done good work. When I think of our scholarships, our tablets, our transcribed registers, our publications, and many less important achievements, I am prouder than I can express.

But as the deeds of our distinguished and long dead forefathers should stimulate their children's children to emulate their heroism, even so in the efforts of the Dames, good work accomplished should make us eager to do more for Virginia, more to honor her, and inspire her living sons and daughters.
"There is much to be done, and if each Dame will but lay her hand and heart to that which we hope to do, this society which we all love will accomplish things of which we have not yet dreamed.
"The purpose of our existence is not self-exaltation or vainglory, but a conscientious endeavor to do what we can in our day and generation. We will not pass this way again.

"Each soldier must be quick to hear, firm to act, always in his place, and this great principle of alert activity should be ours.

"Each in her place and ready to do her part to forward our many hopes and plans.
"The fascinating history of Virginia is well worthy of preservation in stone and literature, and the work of the Virginia Dames has been worthy of the cause for which they have striven.
"Let us not only maintain the dignity and efficiency of the Society of the Colonial Dames of Virginia, but let us make its work so glorious that coming generations will be inspired to carry forward when we are gone, fully maintaining the historical prestige of our loved and cherished State."

Splendid reports were made by the different officers, that of the treasurer, Miss Montague, showing an excellent bank account, and that of the recording secretary showing good work done by the Dames during the year.

A beautiful photograph of a silver punch bowl and cups, contemplated by the ladies as a gift to the battleship Virginia, was exhibited, but was not decided on. It was decided that the gift should take the form of a handsome piece of silver, and a committee was appointed to consider the most appropriate form for the same.

In the election of officers the Dames paid Mrs. Claiborne the compliment of unanimous re-election to the presidency by a rising vote, in this sign of the fact that Mrs. Claiborne explained that her approaching marriage would not insure her presence at every meeting. The high esteem in which she has always been held personally, and the appreciation felt by the society for her able administration of its affairs were clearly evidenced by the enthusiasm shown when it was decided that she would retain her office.

Waddy—Bargamin.
The wedding of Miss Linda Bargamin to Mr. Woodson Pinckney Waddy was quietly celebrated Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock, in the home of the bride, No. 28 East Cary Street, by the Rev. Landon R. Mason, of Grace Episcopal Church, assisted by the Rev. Edward Patton Minor, rector of St. Luke's, Norfolk, Va.

The bride entered with her father, Mr. Charles Y. Bargamin. She was gowned in white, carried Bride roses, and was attended by her sister, Miss Ida Bargamin, also in white, whose bouquet was of La France roses. Mr. Albert Yancey Waddy was best man to the groom, who is a director in the Everett Waddy Company, of Richmond.

After a short stay in Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Waddy will make their home at No. 500 East Grace Street.

Taliaferro—Christian.
Miss Elizabeth Curle Christian and Mr. Charles Mann Taliaferro, of New York, will be married at half-past five this afternoon, in Grace Episcopal Church, the Rev. Landon R. Mason officiating.

The bride will be attended by her sister, Miss Mattie Harrison Christian as maid of honor. Little Misses Jane Warren Christian, the bride's niece, and Miss Jones will carry the bride's train.

Mr. Robert Catesby Taliaferro, of New York, brother of the groom, will be best man; the groomsmen, Messrs. William Wallace Christian and Fairfax Cary Christian, brothers of the bride; Mr. Roy M. Jones, Mr. Irving E. Campbell, Mr. Lucius F. Cary and Mr. Edmund Christian, of Norfolk.

Mr. and Mrs. Taliaferro will leave immediately after their marriage for a trip to points of interest on the Maine coast and in Canada. They will make their future home in New York city.

Engagement Announced.
Mr. and Mrs. David W. Leary, of "Westwood," Amelia county, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lavina Booker, to Mr. Peter Winston, son of Professor Charles H. Winston, of Richmond College, and treasurer of the Winston Electric Construction Company.

The wedding will take place at the home of Miss Leary's parents during the latter part of June. She has been the frequent guest in Richmond of her sister, Mrs. James E. Tyler, and has made many friends here by her lovely personality and charm of manner.

Mr. Winston is a graduate of Richmond College and a popular figure in the business and social world of the city.

A Whole Factory's Ribbon Output on Sale.

We really don't know how many thousands of yards there are. The lot includes every single kind of ribbon that is wanted or worn this year.

Prices Are Less Than Half.

Some ribbons are a third of what they were made to sell for.

$1.50 and $1.75 Veils, 29c.

Does that sound too big? It was a lot of veils put on the market to sell at 50c, 75c, $1, $1.25, $1.50 and $1.75. We saw a chance to even up by selling A1 flat price, so took the whole lot. That is why you can get veils which are worth six times as much for 29c each. There are other big values in veils; the above is a sample value.

POEMS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW

Whatever your occupation may be, and however crowded your hours with affairs, do not fail to secure at least a few minutes every day for refreshment of your inner life with a bit of poetry.—Professor Charles Elliot Norton.

SMALL BEGINNINGS.

By CHARLES MACKAY.

The autograph, portrait and biographical sketch of Mackay have already appeared in this series.

TRAVELER, through a dusty road,
Strewed acorns on the lea;
And one took root and sprouted up,
And grew into a tree.
Love sought its shade at evening time,
To breathe his early vows;
And age was pleased, in heats of noon,
To bask beneath its boughs.
The dromouse loved its dangling twigs,
It stood a glory in its place,
A blessing evermore.

A little spring had lost its way
Amid the grass and fern;
A passing stranger scooped a well,
Where weary men might turn.
He waited it in, and hung with care
A ladle at its brink;
He thought not of the deed he did,
But judged that Toll might drink.
He passed again—and lo! the well,
By Summers never dried,
Had cooled ten thousand parching tongues,
And saved a life beside.

A dreamer dropped a random thought:
'Twas old—and yet 'twas new:
A simple fancy of the brain,
But strong in being true.
It shone upon a genial mind,
And lo! its light became
A lamp of life, a beacon ray,
A monitory flame.
The thought was small—its issue great;
A watch-fire on the hill,
It sheds its radiance far adown,
And cheers the valley still.

A nameless man, amid a crowd
That thronged the daily mart,
Let fall a word of hope and love,
Unstudied, from the heart.
A whisper on the tumult thrown,
A transitory breath,
It raised a brother from the dust,
It saved a soul from death.
O germ! O fount! O word of love!
O thought at random cast!
Ye were but little at the first,
But mighty at the last!

This series began in The Times-Dispatch Sunday, October 11, 1903. One is published each day.

Miss Atkinson's Recital.
The home of Mrs. J. W. Anderson, No. 210 N. Street, presented a beautiful scene last Saturday afternoon, the occasion being the final recital of Miss Lura Atkinson's class in elocution. The parlors were decorated in palms, ferns and daisies, and the bright, smiling faces and pretty dresses of the children gave an additional touch of beauty to the scene. The following attractive programme was excellently rendered, and reflected great credit upon the teacher, Miss Atkinson:
Music, Margaret Anderson.
Music, "Inventor's Wife"—Bessie Hewlett.
Reading, "Mrs. Lefty"—Ruby Brauer.
Reading, "Dead Doll"—Bruce Parker.
Reading, "Pa's Soft Spot"—Francis Anderson.
Music, Heart and Flowers (Tobani)—Zella Gentry.
Reading, "Lary Clare"—Jessie McMin.
Reading, "When Teacher Gets Cross"—Agnes Parrish.
Reading, "Angelina" (Negro Dialect)—Lillian Joyner.
Reading, "Little Girl's Lament"—Winston Gentry.
Reading, "Sister's Best Fellow"—Nellie Phaup.
Reading, "The Children's Hour" (Gong-fellow)—Emma Hays.
Reading, "Tables"—Madeline Hays.
Reading, "Baby Logic"—Corinne Dyson.
Reading, "Miss Bath Helps"—Carrie Worthington.
Music, Fascination (Lamos)—Lumma Cunningham.
Reading, "Wild White Rose"—Louise Goode.
Reading, "Grandma's Beau"—Margaret Parrish.
Reading, "Forget-me-not"—Lucille Flournoy.
Reading, "Smack in School"—Marie Brauer.
Music, Staunton Grand March (McHenry)—Jessie McMin.
Reading, "My Father-in-Law"—Grace Gathright.
Reading, "Lost Chord" (Proctor)—Hazel Strang.
Reading, "Money Musk"—Georgie Emes.
Reading, "At the Golden Gates of the Vision" (Father Ryan)—Margaret Anderson.
Reading, "Anx Italian" (Owen Meredith)—Lumma Cunningham.

Among the guests was Miss Kate Puller, who, at the earnest request of the children, gave some of her charming selections. Dainty refreshments were served close to a delightful afternoon. Miss Atkinson will resume her classes in elocution October 1st.

Graham—Powell.
The wedding of Miss Katherine Bell Powell to Mr. J. Montrose Graham will take place at 8:30 o'clock Thursday evening in the Second Presbyterian Church.

FASHION HINTS

CHILD'S SQUARE YOKE DRESS.
With Pointed Bertha and Perforated or Shaped or Low Square Neck. Two Styles of Sleeve.

No. 3189—There is nothing prettier than a little dress in this style for little maids from four to ten years old.
The material employed to make the original was a daintily embroidered wash silk in white with spots of palest blue. The skirt was straight and full, hemmed on the bottom and gathered into a straight belt. The bodice was also full, being gathered to a straight yoke, the fullness blousing into the belt, both back and front.

The neck was cut in a deep V, edged with insertion, the same insertion was employed on the edge of the pointed bertha.
The pattern provides for two styles of sleeves, either the short puff or the full long bishop sleeve.

The style is suitable for a large variety of material, both washables and woollens, and will look well in mohair, serge, challis, cashmere, silk, linen, dimity, gingham or lawn.
The pattern is cut in sizes 4, 6, 8 and 10 years and requires 4 yards of 27-inch material with three-quarters yard of contrasting material to make the eight-year size.

This pattern can be gotten at The Cohen Company for 10c.—ADM.

TRIED "JIU JITSU."
Policeman Kregel Had to Use His Club On Negro's Head.

Rudolph Clyburn, a young white man, who said he hailed from South Boston, was intoxicated Monday night, and that is the reason for his appearance before Justice Crutchfield yesterday. Out of the goodness of his heart the justice dismissed him.

Douglas Hoyle, a negro, who was arrested last night, tried some jiu jitsu tricks upon Officer Kregel, who was in the patrol wagon with him, and as a result has his head gently dented with a club. In addition received ninety days in jail. Justice Crutchfield heard the case yesterday. Officer Kregel was in the wagon with the negro, who was as the vehicle gave a lurch the negro clutched at the officer's throat. His hold was a good one, and but for the ready hands of the police he might have been a different tale to tell.

John Roland, a negro, and his wife of two or three weeks, decided mutually, after parting each other a few, that there was nothing to the old adage about two living with but a single thought, and asked Crutchfield to allow them to think separately. Both were dismissed.

One or two other drunks faced the court and were given the limit, but the court adjourned until this morning at the usual hour.

ROOSEVELT IN BRONZE.
"I Am Now a Great Man," President Says Laughingly.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WASHINGTON, June 6.—The district of Columbia yesterday received a beautiful equestrian bronze statuette of himself as colonel of the Rough Riders. The work is by the sculptor MacMonnies. The presentation was made at the White House by Miss John Souder, of New York, a pupil of MacMonnies. Mrs. Roosevelt, Admiral and Mrs. Dewey and Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Bonaparte were also present.

"I now feel myself," said the President, laughingly, "a really great man. The distinction of 'being a hero' by either St. Gaudens or MacMonnies might flatter anybody. I had always hoped to have something in my possession by MacMonnies, but it never occurred to me that I should have something by MacMonnies of me. The statue is exactly as I should like to have it—the cavalry horse, the Rough Rider clothes, everything."

The President expressed pleasure at the inscription on the shield, "Virtute Viri," meaning a man of physical and moral force.

MISS ROOSEVELT IS HAVING A JOLLY TIME

Old-Time Plantation Breakdown Arranged in Her Honor—To Attend Ball Game.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 6.—Miss Alice Roosevelt, who is to be the guest of Mrs. Buckner Wellington and her brother, Congressman Nicholas Longworth, the rest of the week, was the guest of honor last night at The Pillars, one of the places of the Country Club, at a dinner dance. Dinner was served on one of the long porches, and June roses were everywhere.

The affair had unusual features, sprang as surprises. Country riders supplied the music, which was of the old-time kind. Country fried chicken was the chief article of fare of the thoroughly country feast. Miss Roosevelt's visit are being delightfully spent. No elaborate plans are made for her entertainment, but every hour is spent in some way pleasing to the President's daughter. Yesterday she accepted the invitation from the owners of the National League baseball club to attend a game on Thursday. The private box to be occupied by her will be draped with flags, and the occasion will be designated Alice Roosevelt Day.

Greatest of Landowners.
The Duke of Sutherland is one of the greatest land owners in the world. He owns about 1,250,000 acres in Scotland and many thousands in England. His landed property is exceeded only by that of the czar and of the Peterburg family. Despite his vast wealth the Duke is unassuming and Democratic.
